

Latin Teacher Training: Does it Have a Future Tense?

Plenary: ACL Centennial Lecture CAMWS, Lincoln, NE April 4, 2019

Kenneth Kitchell kkitchel@umass.edu

Selective, Annotated List of Sources Mentioned or for Further Reading

1856. Lewis, Tayler. "Method of Teaching Greek and Latin," Journal of Education 1: 285-94, 480-94. Proceedings of the Association for the Advancement of Education's 1854 meeting as "National Education in the United States" or "Contributions to the History and Improvement of Common or Public Schools, and other means of Popular Education in the several States" [caps, sic]. Available at Hathi Trust.
1894. NEA. Report of the Committee of Ten. New York. National study on education in the schools with separate reports on Latin and Greek.
1899. APA. Report of the Committee of Twelve on the American Philological Association on Courses in Latin and Greek for Secondary Schools. Boston.
1913. Foster, Walter E. "The Status of Latin in the Secondary Schools," Journal of Education 78: 437-39, 493-95. Report of the Committee on Ancient Languages, part of the Commission on the Reorganization of Secondary Education.
1919. Ullman, B.L. "The Latin of the Future," CJ 14:308-19. Thoughtful and interesting to see how far his predications were accurate.
1924. ACL. The Classical Investigation Conducted by the Advisory Committee of the American Classical League. Part One, General Report. Princeton. Especially valuable for its wide ranging statistics.
1931. Deneen, Marie B. "Essentials in the Training of the Latin Teacher in College and in Service," CJ 27:173-82.
1967. Lashbrook, Austin. "Standards for the Training of Latin Teachers," CJ 62:343-45.
1972. Frechette, Ernest A. "'Wanted': Standards for Teacher Education Programs in the Classics," CW 65:220-22
1997. APA and ACL. Standards for Classical Learning. Available from aclclassics.org.
2015. Sellers, Ryan A. "The Future of Latin," CO90:134-37. Musings on the role of technology in future Latin classes.
2017. APA and ACL. Standards for Classical Learning. Available from aclclassics.org.
2018. Standards for Teacher Preparation (draft). ACL, SCS, CAMWS et al. Available from aclclassics.org.