

Bilingualism and Social Context in Pliny's Letters

Code-switching in the Absence of a Latin Term

- (1) In hac datum mihi libellum ad ἐράνους pertinentem his litteris subieci, ut tu, domine, dispiceres quid et quatenus aut permittendum aut prohibendum putares

I have attached to this letter a petition given to me in this (city) relating to benefit societies, so that you, Sir, may decide whether and to what extent these clubs are to be permitted or forbidden. (10.92).

Critical Terms

- (2) Hunc rogo ex consuetudine tua et legas et emendas, eo magis quod nihil ante peraeque eodem ζήλῳ scripsisse videor.

'I ask that you read this and emend it according to your custom, because I seem not have written anything before now with quite the same zeal' (1.2.1).

- (3) Non tamen omnino Marci nostri ληκύθους fugimus.

I did not entirely avoid the paint-pots of our own Marcus [Cicero] (1.2.4).

- (4) Inquam, qui iugulum perspicere non possum, omnia pertempto, omnia experior, πάντα denique λίθον κινῶ.

I say, when I am not able to spot the jugular, I feel out everything, I try everything, and in the end I leave no stone unturned (1.20.15).

"Evocative" Code-switching

- (5) In illa autem (statua) quae est ad Πολυκλέους Herculem.

In that statue, which is near the Hercules of Polyclites (Cic. Att. 6.1.17).

- (6) An si Demosthenes iure laetus est, quod illum anus Attica ita noscitavit: οὗτός ἐστι Δημοσθένης, celebritate nominis mei gaudere non debeo?

But if Demosthenes was justly happy, because an old Athenian woman recognized him thus: this here is Demosthenes, should I not rejoice in the fame of my own name? (9.23.5).

Intimacy

- (7) De re <publica> breviter ad te scribam; iam enim charta ipsa ne nos prodat pertimesco itaque posthac, si erunt mihi plura ad te scribenda, ἀλληγορίας obscurabo.

I will write to you briefly about the commonwealth; for I fear already that the letter itself may betray us and thus hereafter, if I must write more things to you, I will obscure it with code terms (Cic. Att. 2.20.3).

- (8) Ἐπιστήσατε quid facere debeamus.

Consider what we ought to do (6.31.12).
