

Rebecca Harrison
rharris@truman.edu
CAMWS 2018 (session 2 H)

The Transition to Reading Latin: Structural Patterns and Cultural Language Differences

- Has tabulas M. Marcellus, 15 cum omnia victoriā illā suā profana fecisset,
 tamen | religione impeditus | non attigit.
- Iste,
 cum illa iam propter diuturnam pacem fidelitatemque populi
 Syracusani sacra religiosaque accepisset, 20 omnes eas tabulas abstulit;
 parietes, quorum ornatus tot saecula manserant,
 tot bella effugerant,
 nudos ac deformatos reliquit.
5. Vergil Aen. 1.479-80: interea ad templum . . . ibant . . . Iliades . . .
6. Vergil Aen. 1.369-372 (ending Venus' speech to Aeneas and beginning his reply):
 “ . . .
 Sed vos qui tandem? quibus aut venistis ab oris?
 quo ve tenetis iter?” Quaerenti talibus ille suspirans, imo que trahens a pectore vocem []:
 “O dea, . . .”
7. Caesar BG. 1.1.3: Horum omnium fortissimi sunt Belgae.
8. Vergil Aen. 6.893-5: Sunt geminae somni portae, quarum altera . . . altera . . .

Bibliography

- Harrison, Rebecca. “Cogitatorium” website: <http://rharrisosites.truman.edu/>
- Harrison, Rebecca. “Exercises for Developing Prediction Skills in Reading Latin Sentences.” Teaching Classical Languages (Fall 2010): 1-30.
http://tcl.camws.org/sites/default/files/TCL_2.1_1-30_Harrison.pdf
- Harrison, Rebecca. “A Structural Arrangement of Text to Facilitate Reading.” Classical Journal 102.3 (2007): 291-303.
- Kaplan, Robert B. “Cultural Thought Patterns in Inter-Cultural Education.” Language Learning 16 (1966): 1-20.
- Smith, Therese F. and Amos L. Hahn. “Intermediate-Grade Students’ Sensitivity to Macrostructure Intrusions.” Journal of Reading Behavior 21.2 (1989): 167-180.