

The 2009 National Latin Exam: Preliminary Results and Revelations
Sally R. Davis (University of Mary Washington)

A member of the writing committee of the National Latin Exam will present the preliminary results of the 2009 National Latin Exam, including general statistics, awards, easy and difficult questions. This presentation will also provide information on the updated syllabus and correlation to national standards, hints, tips, and suggestions for success on the examination, and progress on the work being done to create a 30-year book containing the history and production of the NLE. There will be plenty of handouts and opportunities for questions, input, and interaction from the audience.
