

Flyer, highlights, and photos of the UNC Greensboro Classical Society's Classics Day 2013

- Macie Imholt, Classical Society President
- Robert Holschuh Simmons, Classical Society Advisor (now at Monmouth College)
- Nearly all pictures courtesy of Jennifer Reynolds
- More than 100 UNCG students volunteered time to make Classics Day work

Classics Day at UNCG

16 NOVEMBER 2013 • 10:30–3:30

Stone Lawn on College Ave.

(EUC CONE BALLROOM IN CASE OF BAD WEATHER)

ALL ARE WELCOME

UNCGCLASSICALSOCIETY.WORDPRESS.COM

FEATURING:

ROMAN MILITARY DRILLS • GREEK AND ROMAN DRAMAS • ETRUSCAN
DIVINATION • MOCK ARCHAEOLOGY DIG • ROMAN GLADIATORS • GREEK
OLYMPICS • DOUGHNUTS & COFFEE • AND MUCH MORE!

PRESENTED BY

THE UNCG CLASSICAL SOCIETY

IN ASSOCIATION WITH

The UNCG Department of Classical Studies and Ashby Residential College

WITH FUNDING FROM

The UNCG Student Government Association, the North Carolina Junior Classical League, and the CAMWS Committee for the Promotion of Latin

TV coverage by NC-wide Time Warner Cable News

The audience for Plautus' Casina

Scenes from Casina

Jocasta from Oedipus the King

- East Carolina University brought a troupe of actors, directed by John Given, to perform an abbreviated version of its production from Spring 2013

Roman military drills

Greek hoplite phalanx

Gladiatorial combat

Youthful gladiators

Olympic footraces, with and without armor

Olympic discus, javelin, and pankration

Olympic long jump

Chariot race

Pot-painting at the archaeology booth

Sand art at the archaeology booth

Roman games, mosaics, and dormice, courtesy of Sherri Madden of Master's Academy in Charlotte, NC

A three-act puppet show

Etruscan divination

The Oracle at Delphi

Writing visitors' names in Greek

Singing myths to the accompaniment of a lyre

Dressing guests up in Roman fashion

