

The College Greek Exam 2014-15

This paper reports on the activities and progress of the College Greek Exam (CGE), in the academic year 2014-15. It begins with analysis of the results of the sixth annual exam, administered in March 2014. The report enumerates the high scores and averages. The results of the exam are then analyzed according to grammatical categories. Where the same or similar questions have been asked on previous exams, there is a comparison of how the students did on both exams. The report includes some general comments on how the exam and the results mesh with certain issues in teaching first year Greek at the college level, both pedagogical (textbooks, etc) and administrative (the need for external assessment tools, etc). Similar results from the pilot test of the exam given in the Fall of 2014 will be compared. The report concludes with an update on the ongoing efforts to deliver the exam online.
